What have I done? (relate tasks to Learning Outcomes)

On the first day of my internship, I had an introduction session with my colleagues and had some chit-chat with them since I knew most of the people working there. I was given a clear instruction of what was expected from me by my supervisor. I was also well aware about the terms and conditions I had to follow in the company's premises and maintain the rules and regulations formulated.

I had to start my tasks from the second day of my internship so, I did some research on the internet and had a session with one of my co-workers who also happens to be my friend. He provided me with some resources and gave me a clear idea of what I needed to do. I was supposed to develop the official website for the company. The website would allow users to explore new games developed by the company and would expand the user base of the company. I gathered all the resources I required and had a conversation with my supervisor on what I needed to do on the next day.

I started to develop the prototype and wireframes of the website from the third day. I had a conversation with my co-workers on what we should implement to add the feature in the website. After a short discussion, we created the wireframe as per the requirements and we were ready for the next phase i.e., to start coding the front end of the application.

What I did well (refer to skills used)

Being an introvert, I have always found myself in awkward situations when trying to talk to new people, but it was a different situation in the first week of my internship. I was feeling comfortable around people and had discussions with most of my colleagues on what I can do better in the coming weeks. I got a good response from my co-workers and I felt much more familiar and motivated. From the very first week, I feel like I am developing my communication skills and getting around new people much better than I used to do.

What I could improve on (i.e. skills I want to improve)

Although I have been doing programming for past three years, I had to face a lot of problems during my first week. I could not adjust myself to the requirements that the company proposed. I had to work my way around and had to talk to a lot of my co-workers to find a proper solution, but I am getting used to this and having a proper idea of what I am required to do. So, I hope I can have a better understanding of problems and solve them on my own.

Action I can take to improve my skills and learning (make these "SMART"):

Goal - To improve my problem-solving technique

Action – As I stated earlier, despite working on projects like this earlier I was facing problems to adjust myself to the problems I was facing in the management. So, I clearly need to have a deeper look on CSS styles and the media queries for a responsive design. Internet has always been a good friend of mine, so I need to spend more time researching the queries that I need to know during my time at the office. Although, I have been getting help from my friends and co-workers I still need to have a lot more discussions with them since they have been in this field for longer than I have and they always have something new and useful to offer that I can learn.
